Creating a Culture of Preparedness Part 2: Moving from Passive to Active Crisis Management

INSTRUCTOR: DENNIS ROSE MBA, CBCP, FOUNDER AND OWNER, RESILIENCY CONSULTING SERVICES

APRIL 7, 2–3 P.M.
Register by March 31

Part 2 in the Culture of Preparedness Webinar Series will focus on crisis management strategy. Learning to maintain command and control throughout the entirety of a crisis can be difficult because of a lack of operational effectiveness. Managers can be confused about who is responsible for what tasks—and it takes a tremendous manual effort to keep everyone working from the same common operating picture.

Participants will learn:
- How to close the gap between planning and analysis and establish an active crisis management strategy that focuses on execution and resolution
- Team and command structure
- Turning static response plans into active tasks
- Maintaining a common operating picture

Webinar Registration Fees

Group Rate: $295 per cooperative (unlimited attendees)
